Jezza in hot water again over 'fracas'

THE BBC last night suspended Top Gear host Jeremy Clarkson "following a fracas" with a producer.

He was put on a final warning last year over a racism row, after claims he used the n-word while reciting a nursery rhyme during filming of the BBC2 car programme.

A BBC spokeswoman said: "Following a fracas with a BBC producer, Jeremy Clarkson has been suspended pending an investigation."

"No-one else has been suspended. Top Gear will not be broadcast this Sunday. The BBC will be making no further comment at this time."

In recent years Clarkson has been cleared of breaching the broadcasting code by watchdog Ofcom after comparing a Japanese car to people with facial growths.

He also faced a storm of protest from mental health charities after he branded people who throw themselves under trains as "selfish" and was forced to apologise for telling BBC1's The One Show that striking workers should be shot.

Inverdale's 'ct' gaffe!

RADIO presenter John Inverdale was forced to apologise for using the C-WORD live on air.

He was interviewing jockeys at the Cheltenham Races for BBC Radio Five Live when he made his X-rated slip.

Inverdale, 55, said: "This is looking at it through rose-tinted glasses... I apologise there for a slip of the tongue."

HORROR: Wreckage of the collision caught on video (inset)

OLYMPIC STARS DIE IN REALITY TV HELICOPTER DISASTER

FORMER Arsenal star Sylvain Wiltord cheated death when two helicopters carrying Olympic stars on a reality TV show collided killing 10 people.

Wiltord was one of the other celebrity contestants on the show but was not selected to travel in the helicopter.

The helicopters collided in mid-air near the remote area of Villa Castelli in La Rioja province, about 700 miles north-west of Buenos Aires, in Brazil. All 10 people on board – eight French nationals and two Argentine pilots – were killed.

Photographs showed the wreckage of the helicopters on the ground in scrubland with people gathered nearby. Among the dead were French Olympic gold medal swimmer Camille Muffat, Olympic boxer Alexis Vastine and sailor Florence Arthaud. The news of the deaths during the filming of the reality survival show

Dropped sent the French sports world into mourning. French president Francois Hollande said: "The brutal demise of our compatriots is an immense sadness."

Muffat, 25, won the gold medal in the 400-metre freestyle at the Olympic Games in 2012, adding a silver medal in the 200m freestyle and a bronze in the 400m freestyle relay. She had since retired from swimming to focus on her personal life.

Olympic gold medalist and swimmer Amaury

Leveau said: "French sport has lost a great champion."

Alexis Vastine won a bronze medal at the 2008 Games in Beijing, but his semi-final loss to Manuel Felix Diaz was marred in controversy as he was docked points by the referee in the final round.

In 2012, he lost in the quarter-finals at the London Games also amid controversy when he drew on points against Tamas Shelestyuk of Ukraine but lost on the countback rule, missing out on a medal.

French secretary of state for sport Thierry Braillard said: "French sport has lost three stars this morning."

Ex-France and Arsenal striker Wiltord, ice skating champion Philippe Candeloro and ex-Olympic swimming champion Alain Bernard and veteran cyclist Jeanie Longo are among the other French athletes taking part in the show, but none was involved in the accident.

Wiltord tweeted: "I am sad for my friends."

Busty Gem — glamour shoots are just great'

SIZZLING Gemma Atkinson has defended her raunchy lingerie photoshoots, claiming: "It didn't feel like work!"

The 30-year-old turned to saucy modelling after leaving her role as Lisa Hunter in Hollyoaks way back in 2006.

And despite claiming she would never pose in undies and show off her impressive 34Fs again, the blonde says she has no regrets about being a pin-up.

Gemma, from Bury, Gtr Manchester, revealed: "It paid for the house I live in, and the one I let out."

"It didn't actually feel like work – I could do a shoot a month and live on it."

"But I love acting and want to focus on doing that now."

"I'll still do photoshoots but they won't be as raunchy – they'll be classy."

Gemma has recently returned to acting as Carly Hope in ITV soap Emmerdale.

Madonna: Kanye is the black me!

POP legend Madonna reckons Kanye West is the black version of her!

Rapper Kanye – married to socialite Kim Kardashian – is known for his erratic behaviour, having once claimed he was "better than Jesus."

But 56-year-old Madge has heaped praise on Kanye, 37, claiming he's just being criticised for being "different".

The Material Girl star – who released new album Rebel Heart this week – said: "Kanye is the new Madonna. Kanye is the black Madonna."

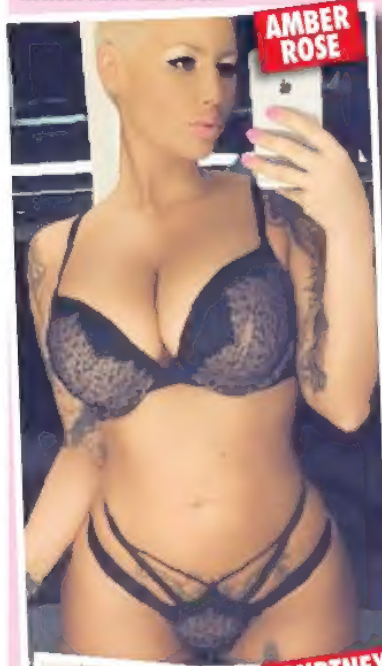

"We know and recognise we have that in common. We're comrades in the envelope-pushing genre."

"We have bonded over criticism we've received for pushing boundaries, he's a beautiful mess and a brilliant madman."

Madonna hit headlines last month after falling on stage during the Brit awards when her cape failed to detach properly.

EMILY RATAJKOWSKI

● LAST year UKIP came under attack from the Establishment after warning there would be a huge influx of Romanians and Bulgarians heading our way once border restrictions were lifted.

They said we were xenomongering and whipping up fear. Just for saying it was madness to open ourselves up to another two poor former communist countries.

As we always thought, the floodgates didn't open immediately, which allowed our political foes and certain sections of the press to call for us to make an apology.

The most prominent were Labour's Keith Vaz and Tory rent-a-gob Anna Soubry, who said UKIP had made "wild, rather offensive" migrant predictions.

Well, I will apologise because we DID get it wrong. We predicted 50,000 a year would come, but we massively underestimated.

Official figures released last week show that 187,370 Romanians and Bulgarians were given National Insurance numbers in 2014, up from 27,700 in 2013 – a rise of 576 per cent.

I think we'll be waiting a bit longer for an apology from Keith, Anna and their friends in the press for saying we were xenomongering.

STRAIGHT TALKING

FROM UKIP'S DEPUTY LEADER

Right-on women's rights lot so wrong

SUNDAY was International Women's Day.

As usual, it was the perfect excuse for the Harriet Harman and the right-on celebrities of the world to bang the feminist drum – and as usual they purposely missed the real target.

They talked about sideshow issues such as Page Three, but failed to mention the real examples of misogyny and discrimination in our society.

Because they are so cowardly and hamstrung by metropolitan political correctness, allow me to comment on the issues they should have raised if they really cared about the plight of women in Britain today.

We now have 85 Sharia courts in this country where the word of a woman is worth only half that of a man, yet there was a deadly silence on it from the feminists.

Do they think this is perfectly reasonable?

We also have 140,000 women in this country who have been genitally mutilated as a result of a backward, bonkers superstition – for which we have not had ONE single conviction.

Why aren't the Lefty feminists jumping up and down about this? Is it because they are tied in knots by political correctness and don't want to offend another culture?

I think we all know the answer. I also didn't hear any of them raising the issue of forced marriages, which are more common than ever before, or the subject of polygamy, where a man can take numerous wives.

Hidden

Surely as feminists who are meant to believe in equality for women this must offend them?

But no, we hear nothing. And then what about face coverings? What about the fact that the Niqab and Burka are more popular than ever before?

Surely one would think that as feminists who are determined to emancipate women they would speak out against a woman being cut off from society because she is hidden behind a cloak of darkness?

But again, nothing. There was not even a murmur of objection to the fact there are growing numbers of their sisters who can't properly interact with society because men interpret the Koran's call for men and women to dress "modestly" as full body coverings for women.

One could be forced into thinking that these right-on champions of women don't speak out for their Muslim sisters because they are afraid of something.

Or perhaps it's because they need male Muslim votes to get re-elected... but I couldn't possibly comment!

And this is before I even mention the failure of the faux feminists to stand up for the poor girls who have been sexually groomed in Rotherham, Rochdale, Derby and Oxford.

What is clear from the failure of the feminists to mention the big issues on International Women's Day is that they are more committed to the "progressive" mantras of political correctness and multi-culturalism than they are to standing up for the rights of women from all communities across Britain.

SARAH Brightman has reunited with her ex-husband Andrew Lloyd-Webber to write a song she can perform from SPACE.

The singer, who has been in training in Star City near Moscow, will take part in a flight to the International Space Station on September 1 for 10 days.

She said singing in space was "very different" to performing on Earth, telling a press conference in London that she hoped to sing from the spacecraft.

Sarah (above), 54, said: "I have been working a little with my ex-husband Andrew Lloyd-Webber who's actually come up with a most beautiful line but we're just taking it slowly at the moment."

She told reporters she wanted to sing from space in a duet with a performer on Earth, adding: "We're trying to work this out at the moment, we're working on the music."

The Cats star, who scored a top 10 hit in 1978 with I Lost My Heart To A Starship Trooper, said she might do one of the moves from the hit track's dance routine while she is up in space.

Sex fiend mechanic's 28-year reign of terror

AT THE COURTS

SERIAL RAPIST: Cops believe there may be more victims of Howard

A GARAGE mechanic who lived with his parents led a secret double life as a sex attacker – carrying out a string of rapes over a 28-year reign of terror.

Evil Clive Howard, 56, admitted carrying out rapes and kidnaps of women after he was caught after assaulting a woman at a car park in Norwich where his number plate was seen on CCTV.

But police fear he may have carried out even more attacks across three different counties and have appealed for any victims to come forward.

Det Sgt Chris Burgess, of the Norfolk Police rape investigation unit said: "Cases like this don't come up very often – we're talking about a serial rapist."

"We want to give people the chance to come forward."

Howard had initially denied the rape in but changed his plea on the day of his trial.

At a hearing at Norwich Crown Court he admitted seven counts of rape, three charges of attempted kidnap and one count of attempted rape, between 1986 and 2014.

Howard, of Battisford, near Stowmarket, Suffolk, was caught by police after he attacked a woman in St Helens Wharf car park, Norwich, on May 30, last year.

The victim, in her 20s, was walking home after a night out when she was given a lift by Howard, who then raped her.

She tried to take a picture of the Volvo's registration number but Howard grabbed her phone and hurled it into a bush before he sped off. The woman found it before dialling 999.

HE ADMITS CATALOGUE OF ATTACKS – BUT COPS SUSPECT MANY MORE

Detectives found "striking similarities" to the Norwich assault in other cases.

Scratching

Howard's DNA matched a profile obtained during an investigation into the attempted kidnap of a woman in her 20s on May 5, 2013, in Cambridge park Christ's Pieces.

The woman managed to fend off her attacker, scratching him in the process, and DNA was later retrieved from underneath her fingernail.

He was linked to three other attempted kidnappings in Cambridge, one of which happened just 30 minutes before the Christ's Pieces attack.

Howard also tried to abduct two women in the city on February 15, 2014, during the night.

Det Sgt Burgess said: "All were in the early hours of the morning."

"Each of the women were approached by a man who had got out of a car and attempted to get them into it. I'm concerned there are other victims out there, either in Norfolk, Suffolk or Cambridge, and would urge other women to come forward."

"It's very rare."

As well as the Norwich rape, Howard also admitted six counts of rape against a woman between November 1986 and March 1993.

Howard, who is understood to have had an 82-year-old girlfriend, was remanded in custody and will be sentenced at the court on April 20.

Judge Stephen Holt told him: "You've pleaded guilty and the one thing that can be said is your victim has been spared the ordeal of giving evidence."

"I'm sure that you will understand I need to have a full pre-sentence report and the whole issue of whether you need to be sentenced as a dangerous offender will be made."

Det Sgt Burgess said: "Reliving an experience such as this is never easy for a victim of sexual assault."

"I recognise the bravery shown by all victims in this case who would have been prepared to give evidence, had the case gone to trial."

"Howard's guilty plea demonstrates the strong case police had against him and I believe women are safer with this dangerous man off the streets."

"A striking similarity between the cases is that Howard would prey on women walking alone at night."

"I hope his guilty plea goes some way to helping his victims move forward from this terrible experience."

Howard was a respectable garage mechanic who didn't have a criminal record and lived on with his elderly parents in Battisford. He also had his own house in nearby Stowmarket.

Although he is thought to have his aged girlfriend he was "actively seeking sexual partners" on internet dating sites.

She gushed: "I'd be happy just to sit gazing into his eyes, thinking, 'Beautiful, beautiful!'"

"I was once asked where I'd like to die, and the answer is under George Clooney!" Edwina also said she has no regrets for revealing in 2002 that she had an affair with former Prime Minister Sir John Major.

She added: "Contrary to popular thought I've never regretted 'spilling the beans' about John Major and me."

"He was being portrayed as a saint and a martyr at the time, yet his indecisiveness and lack of leadership had contributed to the downfall of the Tory party."

Edwina also said she despises funnyman Russell Brand - who has urged people not to vote - saying he is "shallow and wrong about so many things".

Boris digs in for new cycle of road works

BORIS Johnson made the transformation from politician to construction worker as he helped dig the first route on London's Cycle Superhighway.

The city's mayor wore a safety hat and a hi-visibility vest as he sat in a digger at St George's Circus in Southwark.

The route from Elephant and Castle to King's Cross is part of the £4bn Road Modernisation Plan, which aims to make the capital's roads safer.

The Superhighway can accommodate 3,000 cyclists per hour, or the equivalent to 41 fully-loaded double-decker buses. It will create 20,000 sq ft of space for pedestrians and a two-way cycle track.

Two other routes are under construction and some sections will be open as early as April.

Boris said in response to years of campaigning from cyclists: "I know a lot of people thought this would never happen, and a small number of people didn't want it to happen."

"But it is happening." During construction, drivers are advised to plan alternate routes.

It was inspired by the Fifty Shades Of Grey movie and featured an interview with a "sex expert" about a range of sex toys including an eye mask, a lense and collar and a bodywand.

Ofcom had 120 complaints about the show and "opened an investigation into whether an item about 'bondage for beginners' was suitable for broadcast before the watershed". Schofield, who presents the ITV show with Christine

He revealed: "I think for me, and it's my own personal belief, but in the old days, people would pick up the phone and complain or they'd write a letter."

"But now they go to Ofcom - and they must be sick to death of all of this."

"Any minor outrage that anyone's got, they go to Ofcom. They must be inundated with minor complaints."

"This Morning has always pushed the boundaries. Richard and Judy did it when they launched Viagra for the first time, the first time we did a testicular examination, the first time we did an examination to hopefully safeguard yourself against breast cancer, people were outraged, up in arms."

"Since the first day This Morning did that, we've saved countless lives."

Schofield, who presents new ITV show You're Back In The Room, added: "If you look at the stuff we had on there, it was very innocent stuff. And when the item had finished the things we had all sold out."

"So behind those outraged doors of middle England, what they were secretly doing was going to buy this stuff online."

Hillsborough cop: 'I wasn't man for job'

THE most senior police officer on the day of the Hillsborough disaster has told the inquests that he was 'not the best man for the job'.

Former Cth Supt David Duckenfield, the match commander, conceded his hands-on experience of the planning and policing of football matches was limited.

And he agreed it was a "serious mistake" not to seek the assistance of his predecessor after being appointed to the job with just 15 days to familiarise himself with the role before the match, he said.

Mr Duckenfield (above), 70, gave evidence from the witness box, with around 200 relatives of the 96 who died at the match April 15, 1989, listening in silence in seats behind him in the courtroom in Warrington.

He gave the order to open gates, allowing 2,000 fans massing outside the turnstiles into the ground in the minutes before the fatal crush.

Mr Duckenfield told the inquest: "Probably I was not the best man for the job on the day."

Fridge carry fundraiser on assault charges

A SERIAL fundraiser famed for running with a fridge strapped to his back has appeared in court charged on an assault charge.

Tony Phoenix-Morrison, known as Tony 'The Fridge', appeared at Sunderland Magistrates' Court facing five charges.

The 50-year-old, from Hebburn, South Tyneside, completed numerous challenges including running the length of Britain with the 42.5kg fridge on his back, for the Sir Bobby Robson Foundation.

He was also named fundraiser of the year at the Pride of Britain Awards 2014.

Last year he said he would be retiring his fridge after one last endurance race that will see him run across America.

Court officials confirmed that he faces four charges of assault and one of using violence for the purposes of securing entry into a home.

He denied the charges at his appearance yesterday and will return to the court in September after being granted conditional bail.

STABBED IN PENIS AT A POUND PUB!

Old boys' drunken brawl ends in violence

A MAN was stabbed through the PENIS after a trivial altercation in a pub turned to violence, a court has heard.

The savage knife wound went through his manhood into his groin, just missing his femoral artery.

As 64-year-old victim Terence Flood was tended by paramedics he was terrified to hear them say "it's a bad one" and that he would not survive if they took him to the hospital originally planned.

Instead he was rushed to a nearby hospital where he was treated for the agonising wounds, which also included cuts to his left hand.

Liverpool Crown Court heard that the incident happened on July 14 last year while Mr Flood and his attacker, Alex Walker, 71, were in The Pound Pub in Atherton, Lancs.

Mr Flood mentioned to Walker he had heard rumours that he owed

Mr Flood said he did not want to fall out with him and had just been trying to do him a favour.

But Walker (above) insisted so he went, expecting to continue the verbal argument.

A scuffle occurred during which Walker lunged at Mr Flood. He did not know what had happened, but someone shouted 'oh my God!' and he became aware of blood.

Mr Flood said the pain was "indescribable", the swelling has only just subsided and he is concerned about his ability to get an erection.

When questioned Walker, a former joiner, said he had drunk 10 pints of beer.

He admitted wounding Mr Flood with intent and possessing a lock knife.

He was jailed for six years.

By JOSEPH SCRIMSHIRE

REALITY star Kim Kardashian flashed her world-famous BOOBS at the Paris Fashion Week recently – and we're obsessed with her sultry new look!

The 34-year-old left almost nothing to the imagination as she displayed her mega-busty charms in a skimpy see-through top.

But she's not the only sizzling celeb rocking the fishnet look – check out these gorgeous babes!

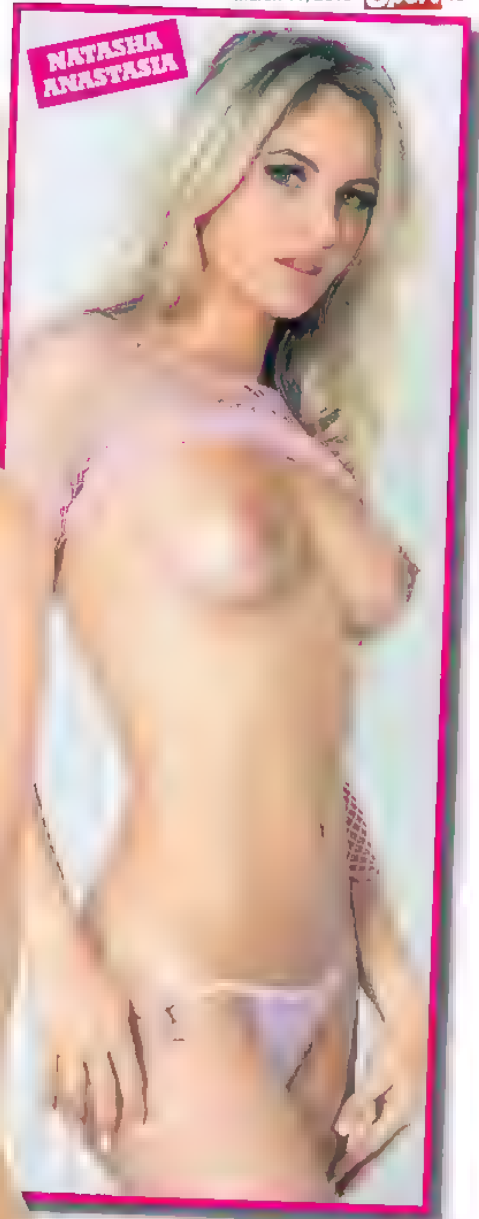

Glamour model Jodie Marsh, 36, flaunted her bra-busting bolters at a showbiz party in Brentwood, Essex, several years ago.

And only last year, kinky pop star Rihanna, 27, showed off her perky nipples backstage at a fashion show.

Bad Romance singer Lady Gaga, 28, flashed her lovely bum in fishnet stockings during a shopping trip back in 2010.

And Madonna, 56, gave onlookers a bootyful view of her backside in concert last year.

And our very own Midweek Sport stunnas, including Krystal Webb, Katie Ryder and Hannah Elizabeth, are fans of the sexy look too!

SIMPSONS CREATOR DEAD AGED 59

After stints writing for Taxi, Cheers and The Tracey Ullman Show, Simon helped launch the popular cartoon in 1989.

By NEIL GOODWIN
neil@sundayexpress.co.uk

Laugh

Simon was diagnosed with terminal colon cancer in 2012 and was initially told that he had only three months to live.

After getting the devastating news he immediately teamed up with Benn for the

Asked why he decided to dedicate his fortune to animal rights, Simon said, "My passion for the animals and against animal abuse is based on the knowledge that these creatures which think and feel can't speak for themselves."

"I feel that it is my responsibility to speak for those who can't speak for themselves."

Simon spent his final months funding projects that feed homeless people and save animals from being killed in shelters.

KATY'S IN HER BIRTHDAY SUIT

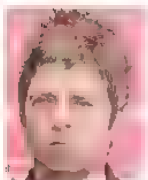

The sexy singer, who once kissed a girl and liked it, wowed audiences at a gig this week when she wore a TRANSPARENT dress with balloons over her boobs and a birthday cake over her lady parts.

And she invited fans to 'make a wish' as the busty

Katy, who was once married to Brit comedian Russell Brand, was in Amsterdam performing at the Ziggo Dome Arena as part of her self-out "Prismatic" tour.

American hit-maker Katy, also wore a bright green wig but, unsurprisingly, no-one was looking at her hair.

Noel: Brand miserable after booze with Mozza

FORMER Oasis star Noel Gallagher has revealed he tried to get Russell Brand DRUNK during a boozy bash with pop miserabilist Morrissey.

The 47-year-old said the bizarre encounter took place last year when he met Russell in Los Angeles.

Noel said "I was in LA on holiday, and Russell came by. He goes, 'What are you doing tonight? I was with Morrissey last night, and he wants to go for a drink'."

"So Russell is texting him and Morrissey's texting back, saying 'Tel him to bring his credit card'."

"I told him I was up for it but didn't want to keep my wife awake, so I want to be home by two o'clock."

"And he says 'Two? I can't handle Morrissey for more than 30 minutes. He's fking mental!'."

Noel and the ex-Smiths singer 55 then went on a wild all night bender - but recovering alcoholic Russell didn't get involved.

He continued "Morrissey was fking hilarious. We were drunk off champagne, and Russell who doesn't drink, was really miserable."

Cider makers pressed for duty by EU

CIDER lovers are weeping in their favourite tipple - because Britain's apple grog is under threat from the EU!

Small-scale cider makers - who produce less than 12,000 pints a year - don't currently have to pay any duty on what they earn.

But Brussels plans to tighten their rules, forcing brewers who make between £8,000 and £10,000 income per annum to pay a whopping £2,700 in Excise Duty to HM Revenue & Customs.

This could mean cider makers simply shut up shop - and scrumpy lovers will be hit hardest.

Martin Thatcher, who makes cider at Myrtle Farm in Somerset, said "Cider has played an important part in Britain's rural life and landscape for hundreds of years - no alcoholic drink has been produced in these islands for longer."

"The looming threat is particularly frustrating because it is the result of a technical anomaly."

"If nothing is done the effects will be catastrophic for cider makers old and new."

DAD'S SPYCAM FILMED SON'S SEX WITH GIRLFRIEND

AT THE COURTS

Wired to kitchen TV so he could watch while cooking

A DAD who installed a spy camera in the ceiling above his 21-year-old son's bed so he could watch his sex romps with a girlfriend has been jailed for four years.

The 53-year-old married man could hear noises coming from the couple's bedroom and was "curious" about their sexual exploits, a court heard.

He installed the spy camera in the loft above their bed and then recorded the pair having sex - even linking the video feed to a television in the kitchen so that he could watch while COOKING.

A judge was told how the father's twisted campaign of voyeurism only came to an end when his younger daughter accidentally switched to a different channel on the TV and was confronted with live images of her brother's bed.

Shame

She then told the son's girlfriend and they climbed into the attic and discovered the camera.

They later discovered a naked screenshot of the 19-year-old girlfriend, taken from a video of her having sex with the son.

The man, who cannot be named to protect the identity of his children, bowed his head in shame as the judge told him he would face jail for his "appalling" crimes against his own family.

Judge Ian Pringle QC said "It is an appalling abuse of trust. A greater breach of trust is difficult to imagine."

"You wanted to spy on their sexual activity curious as to what was going on, and you even

By NEIL GOODWIN
neil@sundaysport.co.uk

printed out a picture of your son's girlfriend naked."

"You say you don't know why you committed these offences and that I gave you no real sexual gratification."

The judge sitting at Oxford Crown Court was told that the middle-aged father had also conducted a campaign of sexual abuse against his 12-year-old daughter, touching her over and under her clothes.

After the hidden spy camera was discovered the youngster plucked up the courage to tell her mother, who called the NSPCC.

Defending the father Jonny McVeigh said it was still unclear what had motivated him to commit such abuse.

Concern

"What he is unable to put into words at this stage is the motivation behind his behaviour," she said.

"He didn't feel an immediate feeling of sexual gratification from it."

"His concern was remains and continues to be how his daughter is coping."

The jailed dad, who was living in Faringdon, Oxon, at the time of the offence, admitted eight counts of sexual activity with a child and two counts of voyeurism.

It's Carmen Phwoar-tega!

SULTRY model Carmen Ortega accidentally flashed her BOOBS at a showbiz bash last week.

The 31-year-old slipped out of her sexy dress as she left a nightclub in Hollywood, Los Angeles.

The busty brunette is best known for her torrid affair with Yak singer Jason Derulo - while he was engaged to American Idol winner Jordin Sparks.

TEXT A RED HOT OLDER WOMAN TODAY! SHE'S SO UP FOR IT!

EXPERIENCE THIS!

TAKE a look...take a long, lingering look at Alice, here. Alice is one of our older girls. We'd have loved to have shown you her face and told you a lot more about her but, well, Alice is a pillar of her local community and aside from that, her husband of 32 years would not approve of her swapping sexual texts with horny strangers half her age! Anyway, have a good look at what you can see...pretty tidy for a woman in her sixth decade, eh?

Well, there's a few lines but her tits are still perky and her tummy flat. Alice looks after herself, regularly treating herself to expensive lingerie and ensuring that her grooming regime is from head to toe. She's loved a Brazilian before it had a name!

So why not make my sexual text one-on-one with a younger like YOU? Well, says Alice, it's all about now.

When people meet me they probably think I'm just some old, married fuddy duddy. They would never guess that when I was 19 I ran off with a biker gang and, ahem, once ENJOYED three of them at the same time," she laughed.

"I love my husband but I still like to sample my experiences and experience some new ones so, come on you horny buggers, get texting me and give me something to finger myself about!"

Alice is typical of the women you'll find here. From yummy mummies in their early 40s to proper grey-haired grannies in their 70s, we've got the perfect oldie for you!

You can specify a type on your first text but remember to put the trigger word first. Or you can add your postcode and we'll put you in touch with someone local.

If you've never tried sex texting before, now's your chance and you're guaranteed to get messages from a real older horny woman.

LAST week everybody was talking about Kim Kardashian's new blonde haircut. I have to say, it looks absolutely bloody dreadful!

Just... why? What the fk was she thinking? The only possible explanation is that there's something very big on the horizon, like a Vogue cover.

Or it could be her husband Kanye West's influence - she's admitted that he encourages her to try different looks.

Maybe he told her to wear those horrendous leather trousers too? Ugh.

I think he's trying to make Kim look like his ex-girlfriend, model Amber Rose.

She had platinum blonde hair and a massive arse too!

POOR David Walliams has split with his wife Lara Stone after five years of marriage. Some people are saying the model was sick and tired of his cross dressing ways but I don't believe that. She knew all about that before she married him.

I don't think we'll ever know why they broke up. But it's still so sad when young children are involved.

There hasn't been much from Lara - but David (right) looks like he's handling it very well.

It can be so difficult when your heart is broken, it can honestly feel like a death in the family.

At least he's a comedian - you know what they say...laughter is the best medicine!

SO this week we heard more details about Katie Price's speech at her 'wedding' to Kieran Hayler.

The couple (right) have renewed their vows after Kieran confessed to cheating with Katie's two best pals Jane Pountney and Chrissy Thomas.

And the glamour model's vows were basically her slagging off Kieran and those two. It was shameful.

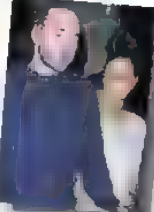

I totally understand that she feels upset but this needs to stop.

For the last couple of months, Katie has been relentlessly cruel about Jane - on Twitter, in newspapers, on telly, everywhere.

But she needs to remember that Jane has TWO children. They don't need to be dragged into this.

Katie has done enough to humiliate this woman, and now it's a time to move forward.

Take my advice, she's not worth it.

ANOTHER woman has been nicked for stripping off on webcam - in PUBLIC!

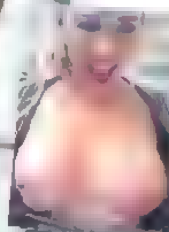

Alexandria Morra was sacked after she was caught fingering herself in a library for saucy webcam. MyFreeCams.com

I've seen the video and she's very naughty indeed!

In fact, I'd like to welcome Alexandria (left) to work for MY webcam site Harddrive!

She's horny, wild and has a sexy American accent. What's not to love?

Come visit me and my girls now at harddrive.xxx

IT'S been a sad week for me. It would have been my mum's birthday, but she died of cancer last year.

All those years, and now she's gone. It's been really difficult.

It's the first of everything that kills. The first Christmas was painful. The first birthday.

But there is a cycle to life. Every moment people are born, and they die.

Losing someone does put things into perspective really.

But at least I know what happened to my mum. I can't even imagine what it must be like for the families of people who have gone missing.

It made me think about the search for the Malaysia Airlines MH370.

They recently discovered debris in Australia but they will never really know what happened, will they?

It's just an awful situation.

Good to see Arg back!

I WAS pleased to see James 'Arg' Argent from TOWIE looking so fit and healthy again.

He was suspended from the ITV reality show a few months ago and sent to rehab for supposed drink and drugs problems.

Fame

His partying was apparently off the scale but now he's a completely different person - and he's looking good!

But I think a lot of people can learn from Arg's story. These reality stars are not always ready for fame.

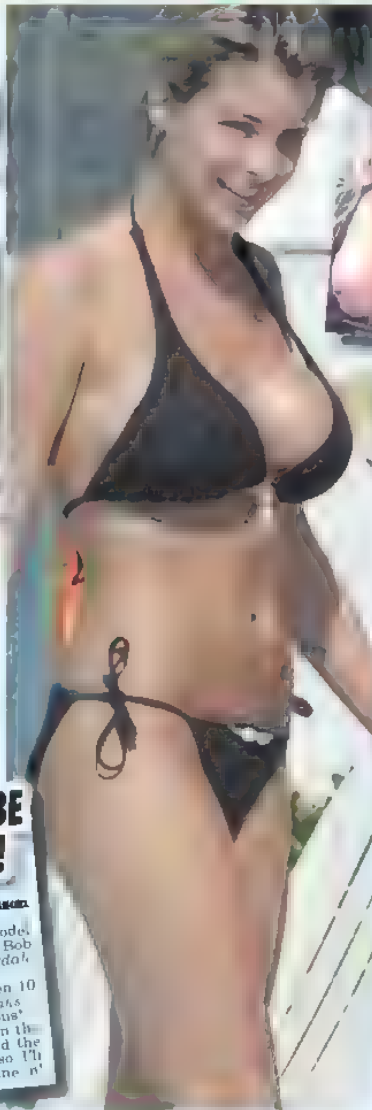

And in my opinion, they're used and abused. TV bosses need to warn them about the dangers of fame.

Fortunately, Lauren Pope seems to be different from the rest. She's a bit older than the others and went into reality TV at the end of her modelling career.

She knows fame is only temporary and seems to have her head screwed on. Good for her!

The worst situation is if your telly career ends and you've got no money left.

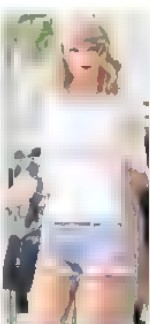

But right now it looks like Arg has sorted himself out. Best of luck to him!

HOLLYOAKS BABE IS STILL A GEM!

HOLLYOaks' Gemma Atkinson is back on the telly! The former glamour model (right) makes her debut as Bob Hope's daughter in Knockout next month.

It's hard to believe it's been 10 years since she left Hollyoaks and she's still bloody gorgeous! But it's great to see her on the TV again. I've always found the programme a bit boring, so I'll finally have an excuse to tune in!

APPARENTLY singer Taylor Swift (right) has insured her legs for £40 million. Sounds like a load of bollocks to me!

You get these rubbish stories all the time and they're nearly always false.

Remember back in the day when newspapers said Katie Price insured her boobs for a million quid? Ha!

And why would a musician insure her legs? It's not like anything's going to happen to them. I do love a good headline but who the hell makes this stuff up?

Natalie Portman and Mila Kunis in Black Swan
IT'S no mystery why Natalie Portman, 33, won the Best Actress award at the Oscars for her role in this dark thriller. Because her lebo sex scene with Mila Kunis, 31, is one of the most spunk-worthy in movie history!

Michelle Ryan and Brooke Kinsella in EastEnders
MICHELLE'S character Zoe Slater kissed her on-screen best pal Kelly Taylor, (Brooke Kinsella) in this memorable 2003 episode. More than 9.5m people tuned in to watch them snog on the New Year's Eve show.

WOMEN IN LOVE: Tina and Sonia get it on

Jenna Louise Coleman and Charley Webb in Emmerdale
DOCTOR Who star Jenna Louise Coleman played tongue twister with her sexy on-screen girlfriend in Emmerdale in 2005. At first Debbie Dingle (Charley Webb) only kissed Jenna's character, Jasmine Thomas, to annoy her dad - but they eventually developed feelings for each other.

Jamie Murray and Mia Kirshner Coleman in Defiance
THIS sci-fi drama about aliens and humans co-existing has it's fair share of girl-on-girl action. But the best moment happens when Jamie Murray's character, Stahma Tarr, visits a brothel and ends up shagging the lesbian madam!

Lucy Dixon and Jazmine Franks in Hollyoaks
ACTRESS Jazmine Franks admitted she was "terrified" over her on-camera lebo romps in "terrified" over her on-camera lebo romps in the Cheshire-based teen drama. Her character the Cheshire-based girlfriend Tilly Evans (Lucy Dixon) for the first time in June 2013. She said, "It is quite nerve-wracking. But we're so comfortable around each other now, it's like we're used to doing it!"

Amanda Seyfried and Megan Fox in Jennifer's Body
MEAN Girls star Amanda Seyfried got fleshy with Megan Fox in this 2008 comedy horror. Cheerleader Jennifer Check is possessed by a demon and starts killing the high school's men. But she also manages to seduce her pretty pal Anita (Seyfried) kissed a girl!

(...AND SEEMED TO LIKE IT!)

TV bosses are braced for another ratings-breaking scene - as EastEnders babe Natalie Cassidy kisses a sexy LESBIAN pal!

The 31 year-old star, who plays Sonia Fowler on the BBC soap, will share a lesbo-lust moment with actress Luisa Bradshaw White, 38, in an upcoming episode.

Sources say Luisa's character Tina Carter "finally gives in to

By JOSEPH SCRIMSHIRE
joseph@sundaysport.co.uk

the tension that's been building. There has been a spark for a while but it hasn't amounted to anything. This could be the start of something meaningful."

And to celebrate this sizzling moment, Midweek Sport looks back on the greatest gir-girl snogs in television history.

From Brookside to Hollywood we've got 'em all covered!

Michelle Hardwick and Zoe Henry in Emmerdale
EMMERDALE is better known for dodgy farmers than horny rug munchers. So it was a massive but pleasant surprise when pill-popping Vanessa Woodfield (Michelle Hardwick) showed up last year and announced her lesbo lust for pal Rhona Gaskirk (Zoe Henry).

Gemma Chan and Katie McGrath in Dates
THIS Channel 4 drama about people online dating was a bit shit really. But there was one decent bit - when sexy singletons Erica and Kate snogged at a bar before checking into a hotel for casual sex!

Brooke Vincent and Krissi Bohn, Amy Kelly and Sacha Parkinson in Coronation Street
BROOKE Vincent had LOTS of on-screen lesbo romps as Coronation Street's Sophie Webster. Back in 2010, her character's friendship with Sian Powers (Sacha Parkinson) developed into something more. And we've seen her kiss no less than THREE gorgeous babes since then... and long may it continue!

Anna Friel and Nicola Stephenson in Brookside
BROOKIE may be long gone but it will always be remembered for its amazing lesbian kiss between lipstick lezzas Anna and Nicola. Their pre-watershed snog attracted a whopping 10 million viewers!

Selma Blair and Sarah Michelle Gellar in Cruel Intentions
THIS late 1990s black comedy has a crap plot but there's one brilliant moment when SMG gives Selma Blair a hands-on lesson in French kissing... with full-on tongues!

Neve Campbell and Denise Richards in Wild Things
CLASSIC movie with topless babes, three-way sex romps and a sleazy plot. And who could forget it's sizzling lesbian kiss between Neve Campbell and Denise Richards? It's most definitely what Kleenex was invented for.

Bankrupt Simon: I'm not Blue at £10m loss

BLUE crooner Simon Webbe has claimed he didn't care about going bankrupt, admitting, "There's worse things than losing £10 MILLION!"

Boy Band heartthrob Simon, 36, was forced to declare himself bankrupt in 2013 after a string of bad investments.

But talking about his money troubles in a tell-all new interview the star - who finished as runner up in 2014's Strictly Come Dancing - says losing millions isn't that big a deal.

The singer from Manchester, said: "There are worse things than losing £10 million. I know people who lost £120m in the crash. If they can get themselves back on their feet, so can I. It's just money."

Since the star filed for bankruptcy he's seen a dramatic upturn in his fortunes thanks to a reunion tour with his boy band Blue and his stint on Strictly. Simon added: "At one point in the past I was paying £18,000 a month in bills. But I've stopped all that now."

"I live way more within my means. I won't go out and spend £10,000 a night on tables in clubs. I have money coming in and I spend it wisely. I make sure I have plenty in my savings."

Train victim's legs are sliced off at station

A MAN lost both his legs in a horror accident - when they were sliced off by a TRAIN.

The unnamed victim lay down on the tracks as the train approached a station in Queens, New York.

One looker said: "I've never seen anything like it - he just lay there and then, wallop!"

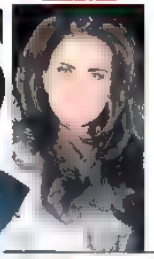

"There was nothing left of his legs. I've heard of getting legless, but this is too far."

The man was taken to a local hospital, where medics said it was "touch and go" that he would survive his injuries.

It is not the first such instance of a double leg-severance at the Queens station.

In 2013 Teena Kartz, 31, lost both legs after falling onto tracks, and she also survived the same accident.

ALWAYS HOME OF TOPLESS BABES

ALICIA Douvall reckons that her Celebrity Big Brother housemate Katie Price has inspired her to have her huge boob implants removed.

The former glamour model, who has had a whopping 18 breast ops, reckons she might go for the natural look too - after seeing Katie go smaller.

Alicia, 36, recently revealed on the Channel 5 show that her curves are held together by PIG SKIN due to the sheer amount of work she's had done by surgeons.

Gorgeous

She said: "Katie looks so different now! Without the big boobs you realise how naturally gorgeous her face and figure are."

"It has inspired me - I want my implants taken out now, too!"

"It's not something I ever thought I'd be brave enough to do but seeing her has changed all that.

"I can't lift my arm properly and I wake up in pain and can only sleep in certain positions."

"They said I'd have to be on painkillers for the rest of my life, if I opted to stick with the implants."

"And to be honest I thought I'd rather live in pain forever than not have them."

"But I think I can do this now - I'm ready to move on."

Porn legend Asia's drink drive charge

A FORMER porn star was arrested for drunk driving while her young daughter was in the car.
Jessica Steinhauser, who performed under the name Asia Carrera, was pulled over by cops in St George Utah last week.

According to reports, her blood alcohol level was more than three times the legal limit.

Police say the 41 year old's young child was in the back seat at the time.

Steinhauser from New York also attempted to drive off as cops were trying to interview her.

She was a major adult film star before the internet took over the industry appearing in more than 250 scenes between 1993 and 2005.

In 2010 she wrote on her blog that she was attending Alcoholics Anonymous meetings after her husband's tragic death.

But gossip website TMZ recently reported she was still struggling with drink.

She was arrested and charged with driving under the influence with a child under age 16.

NEW GALAXY HAS GOT THE EDGE!

SAMSUNG Galaxy S6 Edge
www.samsung.com/uk

EVERY other month a new handset is released to the market claiming to put your mobile to shame.

No matter that you spent a bucket load up front and you're tied into a two-year contract – it's now obsolete.

Normally, that's because the new model has a better processor or they've managed to run an extra two minutes out of the battery life. It normally isn't something that's going to blow your mind.

But getting four hours' life out of a 10-minute charge, THAT'S enough to make you sit up.

Add that to a really good-looking CURVED screen and you may just be regretting upgrading early.

That's what the Galaxy S6 brings to the table – it's revolutionary.

It features a wrap-around screen that flows over the edges on both sides, hence the name. The screen itself is a 5.1 inch Quad HD display, meaning a 577ppi resolution.

And there's no need to fret about the feet your tech is almost entirely made of one of the world's most notoriously breakable materials.

Because even if you do drop the thing repeatedly, the Gorilla Glass should make it through virtually unscathed.

Looking past that screen, it's clear they've done a lot inside. Wireless charging has been built directly into the handset.

Samsung even says this is the fastest juicing smartphone out there. It can get from zero to 100 per cent in half the time it takes the iPhone 6.

Cool

The camera still has the impressive 16-megapixels of its predecessor, but the 5-megapixel front-facing camera has been updated to feature Auto HDR.

And using the Android Lollipop operating system, this really is a fantastic bit of kit.

The actual advantage of having a curved screen apart from being able to boast to your mates? Nobody bloody knows. But it looks cool.

The Galaxy S6 Edge is available in 32GB, 64GB and 128GB models from April 10.

But if you've won the lottery, these truly are great.

Inside each of the translucent earphones are four custom speaker drivers. Two are in there to jointly handle lower frequencies, another handles the mid-range, and a final one handles the high-end.

The performance is enough to give you a brown deposit in your bankers' Music sounds amazing through these.

There's only really one problem bar the price, and that's the size. They are bloody massive, not great if you've got tiny ears.

WOMAN'S ANIMAL SEX STASH FOUND BY PHONE REPAIRER

By TESSA WATKINS

news@sundaysport.co.uk

A DISABLED post-op transsexual who loves outdoors sex with strangers has been found guilty of storing images showing sex with horses.

Dawn Love was caught after she took her faulty mobile phone into an 02 shop to be repaired.

Shocked staff found two video clips showing images of women engaged in sex acts with horses and reported the 55-year-old to police.

During a search of her home and a camper van, officers found a DVD showing women having sex with dogs.

Love, who was born a man, stared straight ahead and showed no emotion as the verdicts were delivered.

During the one day trial the court heard that Dawn Love would regularly swap porn DVDs with various people – including lorry drivers in car parks while dogging.

Casual

But she claimed she rarely watched them and often did not know what was on them.

She told the jury at Guildford Crown Court: "I went dogging all over the place. I had casual sex in public places."

The jury heard that Love worked in a West End club for gay and transsexual people two days a week and would often leave her phone on the reception counter or behind the bar.

Defending James Bloomer asked: "Have you ever had your phone stolen?"

Love replied "No". Mr Bloomer said: "Do you ever check if anything has been stolen?"

Love replied "No. There is no need to."

Love said she had been dogging for around 30 years and never usually saw the same person twice.

She told the court she kept her phone in a holder on the dashboard of her camper van where she invited people in for sex.

When asked if she would leave the phone unattended, she replied: "At the time – when I was strapped up in the back of the bed."

The disabled post-op transsexual went dogging around three to four times a week at the time the images were found in 2013. When asked about whether she would always watch the

GUILTY. Dawn Love

DVDs, she replied: "No. One could stay in the machine for months."

Mr Bloomer said: "Did you know you had a DVD involving sex with a dog?"

She replied "No".

The court heard Love took her phone into the 02 store in Camberley, Surrey on July 26, 2013, after her emails stopped working.

Horried staff found two video clips of women having sex with horses.

When asked if she had watched the clips – or if she knew they were on her phone – she said: "No".

Mr Bloomer said: "Did you have any knowledge of these items on your phone or in your car?"

Love replied "No. I didn't".

Drugs

When asked why she had not tried to find out who had given her the DVDs, she replied: "I do not know the people who get into my van and tie me up and have sex with me. I would not know where to start."

She said she had 10 in my head on drugs."

Love of Sunbury, Surrey, denied two counts of possessing extreme pornographic images and was found not guilty of possessing the DVD, but guilty of possessing the images found on her phone.

She was released on unconditional bail to return to the same court on April 17 for sentencing.

RENT cutie Cali Garcia says she always wears sexy undies for her fella.

Curvy Cali, 23, reckons he goes WILD for her knickers and likes to mentally take them off her in the bedroom before they enjoy marathon bonk sessions.

The 34B stunner from Sheerness said: "I must spend a small fortune on my underwear, but to me it is definitely my well spent."

"I love that look on my man's face when he's got me alone and I'm slowly allowing him to take it further."

"I like stripping off for him and I often practise on my own in the mirror first."

"The only routine is I sometimes find myself getting over-excited in the process."

Facts behind Fifty Shades fiction are revealed

By JOSEPH SCRIMSHIRE

SOME guys have all the luck. It turns out 'Christian Grey' types really ARE better in bed, according to a new study.

Experts reckon that ladies are more likely to orgasm with fellas who are rich, good looking and successful – just like the lead character in Fifty Shades of Grey.

What a fking surprise eh? They also found that women enjoy sex more if they think their boyfriend is a good catch – regardless of whether he's any good in bed.

Scientists analysed the sexual habits of 500 female university students who kept a log of their bedroom antics.

The subjects were asked to identify how often they climaxed during sex and identify their pleasure triggers.

The study found that the women experienced orgasm 75 per cent of the time they had sex.

However the figure rose to 84% when they were shagging a bloke they thought other women found desirable.

If they felt they were sleeping with a man who was below their league the orgasm hit rate dropped to just 54%.

Relief

The most important factor in triggering orgasm was if their partner came from a wealthy family – which almost half of women agreed upon.

And 42% said that a bloke with self-confidence made sex feel better.

Perhaps a surprisingly physical attractiveness was not the third most popular choice.

Relationships expert Tracy Cox, who has her own range of kinky toys with add-a-shop Lovehoney, said: "It's a woman definitely respond to factors such as wealth and status when having sex."

But they don't necessarily want a man with Christian Grey's chiselled good looks. She said: "Mr Non Perfect is a relief to any woman who steps on the scales and finds her mood is affected. Especially when it comes to sex."

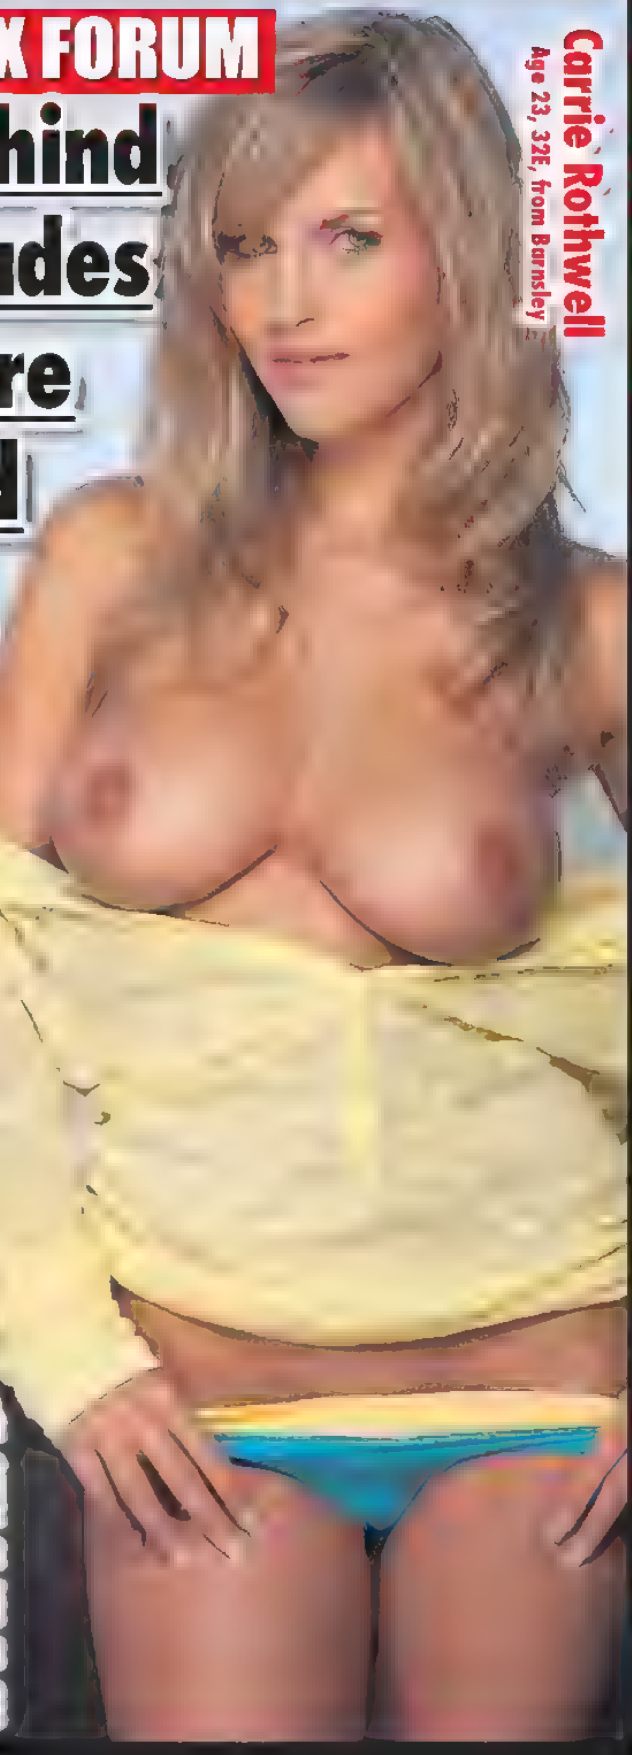

"Women are already under external pressure to look a certain way and be a certain weight."

"Is it any wonder women figure out that a man who is confident and not obsessed with his looks will be less critical of ours?"

Burnsley babe Carrie Rothwell has her actions speak louder than wealthy, successful and good looks.

The 32E stunner 23 said: "To me a man who knows how to press all my right buttons in the bedroom is an attractive man who is worth his weight in gold."

SLINKY stunner Amber Mae says she fantasises about having a slippery lesbian THREE-WAY!

The incredible 21 year old has already experienced a steamy ménage à trois involving two men.

But it's Amber's fantasy to explore her sexual cravings by getting it on with two WOMEN at once in the mother of all hunk ups.

The 34C beauty from Cheltenham Gloucestershire - purrroo. "Like any woman I've kissed other girls when I'm drunk. I think that's just part of being young and going out."

"You end up having too much champagne and the next thing you know you're getting off with one of your friends."

"I've played with girls boobs and spanked them on the bum but I've never had full sex with any."

"I'd love that to change because I think being in bed with a woman would be like nothing I've experience so far."

"And to have two girls to play with at once would just be heaven! It'd just be a mass of sprawling arms and legs as we all have orgasm after orgasm by tickling and laughing each other."

"I've had a threesome with two guys before but I reckon a three way would be MUCH more pleasurable."

"He'll get even be nice to film it. I love making little sex tapes though they're for my eyes only. I wouldn't want them cropping up on the internet."

"And girls are just so easy on the eye. For me there's nothing sexier than a naked woman."

advice...

Dear Charlotte,

I RECENTLY got married and bought a house with my wife. Our neighbours were very friendly - they're in their early 40s while me and my wife are 25. Soon after we moved in they came round with a couple of bottles of wine. I fancied my neighbour's wife. She's blonde with a great body. After we'd had a few I popped upstairs for a piss and as I was about to come back down she was right there. Without saying a word she just dropped to her knees, got my cock out and sucked me off. Just as I exploded I could hear moaning coming from the living room. I couldn't believe it when I saw my neighbour doing my wife doggy style. Afterwards our neighbours explained to us that they're experienced swingers.

and invited us to a sex party. There were about 20 couples there. I had sex with four women and my wife had five men. At one point she had a cock in her mouth, fanny and arse. My wife said she loved having more than one man but I didn't like it. Her personality seems to have changed since we started shagging other people and I told her that I don't want her to have sex with other men again. We had a huge row and she's left me for a while she shagged at the sex party. I'm devastated as I love her. I just want to go back to how we were before. How do you think I can win her back?
SB, Essex

Charlotte says...

TELL her how much you love her, but I suspect your wife is addicted to sex and will want to keep swinging.

Threesome thrills with horny lesbians!

Dear Charlotte,

I MUST be the luckiest fella alive because I've just had a sizzling threesome with a pair of LESBOS who work in my office.

My dream came true a couple of weeks ago after the three of us went for a drink after work.

We were having a bit of a laugh when I asked if they'd ever been with a man.

They both said they had, so I half-jokingly offered my services - and to my surprise they looked at each other and said okay.

They took me to their flat and sat me in a chair before stripping off.

As they got in the 69 position on the bed and began rubbing at each other I pulled off my pants.

The girls were moaning and groaning as I took hold of my dick and began to wank off.

Then one of them reached

Letter of the day

out, gripped my manhood and pulled me onto the bed.

One then climbed on top of me and guided my rod into her as her pal sucked on her nipple.

She manoeuvred herself so that her fanny was inches from my mouth and I began licking her out as they kissed.

Then my whole body shook as I reached a climax. I shagged them both twice before going home.

I'd love to do it again, but the girls say no.

What shall I do?

TS, East Sussex

Charlotte says...

ABSOLUTELY nothing, I reckon. Just be glad you managed it the once.

Dear Charlotte,

MY girlfriend and I are both in our late 20s and love to bring toys into our bedroom sex games.

The dirty thing came home with some anal beads which she put up my arse when we had a shag.

But as she pulled them out as I was about to come, a bead got stuck up there.

Shall I go to hospital or wait for it to come out naturally?

DF, Cumbria

Charlotte says...

GO to hospital right away.

Dear Charlotte,

I AM a married 35-year-old civil engineer and I often have to fly around the world advising construction firms.

I recently went to Dubai on a flight from Heathrow. I didn't have a meeting until the next day so I had a few beers on the plane.

After a couple needed the loo but when I pushed open the toilet door there was a sexy brunette of about 40 standing there.

She smiled and said, 'I'm horny, come in.' I looked around and there was no one watching so I shrugged, went in the cramped cubicle, locked the door and kissed her.

She had obviously done this before and we had oral and full sex.

The problem is a stewardess saw us as we made our way back to our seats and I fear I'll be reported to my company.

What can I do?

GH, Warks

Charlotte says...

KEEP your fingers crossed she doesn't tell.

Dear Charlotte,

RECENTLY I caught my husband boning my sister. I came home early from work with a migraine and heard noises coming from our bedroom.

I couldn't believe my eyes as I watched my fella doing her doggy style.

They didn't notice me as I looked through a gap in the door.

He was pulling her hair and she was telling him to fuck her harder. She then sucked him off and he came all over her face.

They don't know that I am aware of their affair. I feel sick to my stomach and think I should leave him, but don't want to upset our kids.

And at 42, I'm worried that I won't find anyone else. Help!

LT, Yorkshire

Charlotte says...

I really feel for you. Kick his arse out and never speak to your slut of a sister ever again!

Dear Charlotte,

I SUCKED my boss off at work last week. He's 42 and I'm a size 10 blonde, aged 23, with fairly big tits.

He's flirted with me since I started working there four months ago.

We were talking in his office when he suddenly kissed me. I responded and he took my clothes off and then told me to blow him.

I licked his balls and his cock. It was big - at least nine inches.

I sucked him for about 15 minutes before he filled my mouth with his spunk.

But since then he has been really cold towards me.

What should I do?

SG, Birmingham

Charlotte says...

I know it will be a bit awkward but you must discuss this with him. Maybe he is worried that you may tell people about sucking him off.

IS YOUR MISSUS HER

(Shock new)

Veronika says...

SOMETIMES you have to fake. It protects a man's feelings. Guys try really hard and it's a lot to them to think they're doing well. The last thing they want is for a girl to tell them they're shit. I had an ex who was really keen and energetic. He used to finish quickly, before I had a chance to climax, but I would just pretend. After a while he started blowing my mind. He would throw me on the bed, bend me over and f*ck me so hard and fast. He would not have had the confidence to get like that if I had constantly put him down.

BAD NEWS lads, a whopping four in five women admit to FAKING their orgasms!

A new study has revealed that rampant playacting, like the famous restaurant scene with Meg Ryan in When Harry Met Sally (top left) is infesting our beds.

Because while most lads are boasting about their sexual prowess down the pub, their conquests have really been feigning their quivering orgasms.

Researchers for The Journal of Sexual Archives surveyed 481 females who were sexually active but not in serious relationships.

And in a crushing blow to blazes the world over 80 per cent of those asked admitted they often pretended to climax.

When asked why they felt the need to lie the top reason given by women was altruistic desire to protect the man's feelings.

In second place was fear and insecurity. Wanting the sex to be a positive experience rather than a negative one.

Shocking

Third was faking it in order to end the sex session.

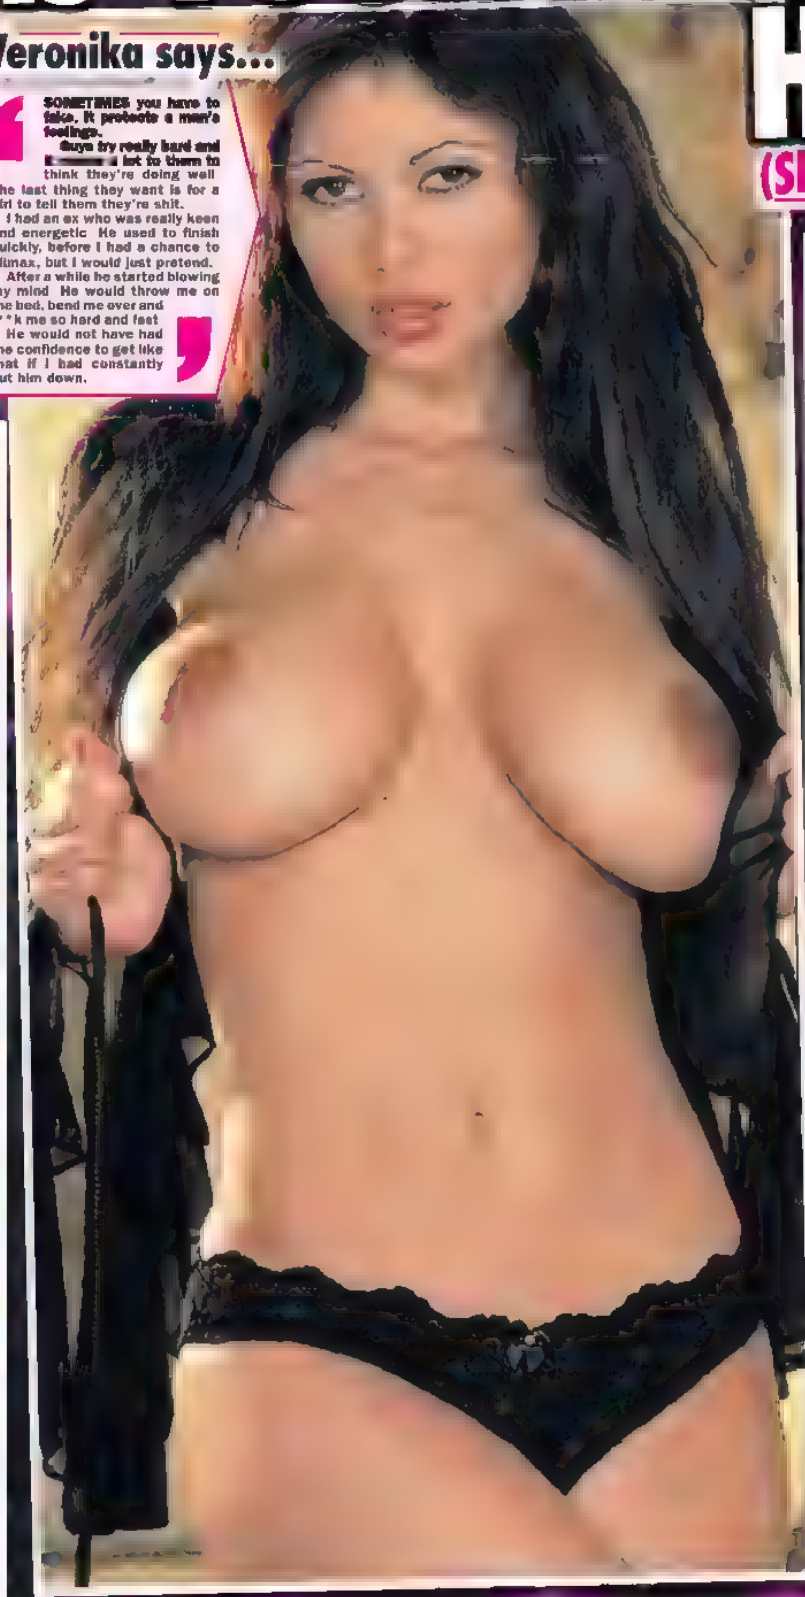

Finishing high up the list, though, was another shocking revelation.

A total of 13% said they faked in order to create an 'elevated arousal'.

The 'fake it till you make it' theory suggests that if you act out the thing you want to happen sometimes it will.

A top sexual psychologist revealed: "By reenacting the lead-up to a real orgasm, breathing faster making noise moving your hips tensing your muscles - you might just push yourself over the threshold to the point where orgasm becomes involuntary."

We caught up with three saucy glamour babes to find out if they'd ever lied about coital bliss.

FAKING ORGASMS?

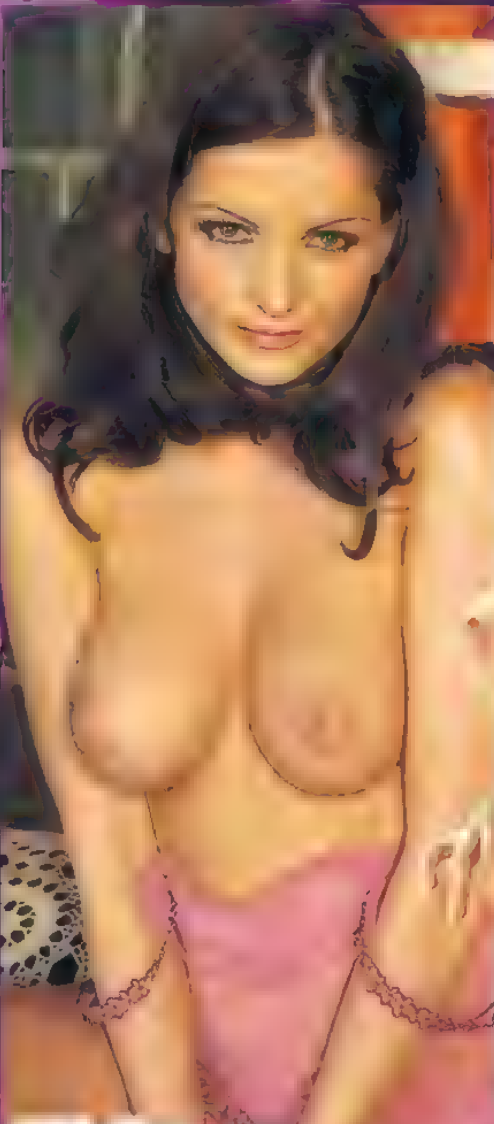

poll reveals four-in-five women don't

Victoria says...

OVER the years I've been with plenty of guys. I've never once had to fake an orgasm. If a man doesn't know what he's doing, just make your excuses and leave. Don't worry about hanging around trying to make them feel better.

I do believe in the whole 'elevated arousal' thing though. If you start acting like you're orgasming, it can actually trigger one. I've used that a few times.

But normally it's about finding a guy who can give you one naturally. He's the person you keep going back to.

Michelle says...

I'VE faked in the past. One guy had a really small one, so I felt bad for him. But normally I just say it how it is. If a guy's not doing it for me, I'll just say. Then you tell them what to do to really get you off. Every woman is different, we don't all reach climax in the same way.

I'm more about clitoral stimulation. I can find it quite hard to finish during sex, so I explain that to blokes and get a sex toy with a vibrating top to really pleasure that area. Then I have multiple orgasms without pretending.

If anything, it's every girl's duty not to fake, to stop men thinking they're always amazing in bed. Give some useful tips instead. The next woman will definitely thank you!

OUT OF ACTION. Alonso

Alonso: I'll be Fern 'n dandy for Malaysia

FORMULA ONE

FERNANDO ALONSO insists he'll only miss one race, and will back in his McLaren in Malaysia.

The team continue to play down fears over the Spaniard's long-term health after he smashed into the wall on the final day of the second pre-season test last month.

But there is still feverish speculation as to the exact cause of the crash – and to Alonso's ongoing condition.

McLaren claimed a freak gust of wind forced him off track, denying the incident was caused by mechanical or electrical failure.

But questions remain as to why the 33-year-old needed to spend three nights in hospital on the back of conflicting stories as to whether he had suffered concussion.

Doctors have since advised him to miss the season opener in Australia this weekend to avoid any lasting damage.

But Alonso insists it's only a precaution and he'll be back in action for the next race in Malaysia in two weeks' time.

Support

He said: "Of course, I'm very disappointed not to be joining Jenson Button in Melbourne, but I understand the doctors' recommendations and I'm already back in training and preparing for my first race in the car."

"I would like to thank everybody for their kind wishes and support, and I'll be giving everything to be back in the cockpit for Malaysia."

With reserve driver Kevin Magnussen set to deputise in Melbourne, Alonso added: "I wish Kevin all the best for this weekend – I know the car will be in his safe hands."

"Even though we faced a lot of challenges in the tests, I'm very encouraged by the feeling I got from the car."

"I'm looking forward to going through all of the data from this weekend with the team to continue our push to improve performance."

Magnussen admits he has mixed feelings about getting a drive.

"I'm really pleased to be behind the wheel with McLaren-Honda again," said the Dane.

"The reason I am here is an unusual one, but my job is to do the best I can for the team while Fernando is out of the cockpit, and that's what I'll do."

SEXTON'S ON FIRE!

BATTLE Sexton is fit for Ireland while Warburton (inset) will pass a Wales record

Fly-half maestro fit for Wales showdown

JOHNNY SEXTON has been passed fit for Ireland's pivotal Six Nations clash against Wales in Cardiff on Saturday.

Assistant-coach Richie Murphy confirmed Ireland's lynchpin fly-half trained fully yesterday, after recovering from hamstring trouble.

Murphy said they have "a full deck to pick from" with Jamie Heaslip, Sean O'Brien and Jared Payne all cleared to face Wales this weekend.

No.8 Henslip's been on the comeback trail after suffering a fractured vertebrae in his back, while O'Brien and Payne have both proved their fitness after concussion.

"Johnny took full part in training this morning, he has done all the team stuff and trained well," said Murphy. "Everyone else has come through. Jamie trained on Monday and Tuesday, so he's fit and healthy and ready to go."

"And the two boys, Jared and Sean O'Brien, passed their return to play protocols."

"It looks like a full deck to pick from, and everyone is very upbeat."

"Everyone enjoyed the session this morning, the intensity was right up there. Having everyone fit and healthy is a massive thing for the squad because it puts pressure on everyone."

Sexton has been widely hailed as the world's form fly-half as Ireland have swept to a record equalling run of 10 consecutive Test victories.

Giant

But the 29-year-old limped out of the Ireland's 19-13 victory over England in Dublin on March 1.

Joe Schmidt's side can take a giant leap towards a first Grand Slam in six years with victory over Warren Gatland's Wales in Cardiff this weekend. Gatland will send an unchanged team into what he describes as a "massive" encounter against the unbeaten title favourites.

He predictably retains the starting line up that defeated France 20-13 in Paris 10 days ago.

Flanker Sam Warburton will break Ryan Jones' record when he captains Wales for the 34th time on Saturday.

Gatland said: "We're under no illusions about what we are expecting to receive on Saturday, and we have just got to be able to cope with the pressure that they put on us."

"It's massive for us because if we win on Saturday we are still in the competition."

Pietersen backing for ECB chief's Col to arms

CRICKET

KEVIN PIETERSEN has backed incoming England and Wales Cricket Board chairman Colin Graves to revitalise the national side.

Graves will take up his new post in May and high on his list of priorities will be to reinvigorate

England's one-day team, who were knocked out of the World Cup in the group stages after a shocking loss to Bangladesh on Monday.

The defeat gave ammunition to those who believe it was a mistake to axe Pietersen from the international set-up 14 months ago, while Graves appeared to leave the door open for the star batsman earlier this month when he hinted he would have a better chance of an England return if he played county cricket in this country.

Vision

Pietersen is said yesterday: "Quick note – ECB doesn't decide who gets to play in IPL/Big Bash. The franchisees have to want them. Plenty have tried & failed to get a go."

"But the encouraging news is the new boss has vision to look to open up a window to hopefully give players a better chance."

"I really do think changes are going to be made and positive things are going to start to happen for the good of English cricket."

ECB chief Paul Downton insisted after Monday's defeat that they needed to give England's players more experience in the Twenty20 format.

Pietersen – currently without a county contract – was sacked by England in January 2014 and has since played T20 cricket for Delhi Daredevils, Surrey, St Lucia Zouks and Melbourne Stars.

MAC BACKS NEW STRUCTURE

ENGLAND head coach Steve McNamara is convinced a more competitive Super League can help him deliver long-awaited success at international level.

The former Bradford boss (left) – now an assistant at Sydney Roosters – believes the reduction of teams from 14 to 12 will offer more intense competition that can help elite players compete with Australia and New Zealand.

And McNamara says he has been encouraged by the early signs after watching the opening rounds of Super League in which every team has collected points.

"We've done a lot of things with the England programme to enhance our chances of being successful, but I always felt the biggest gain could be through our domestic competition. In making it the strongest it could be and challenging the individual players every single week," he said. "It's probably one of the biggest steps that's been made to improve our game and I hope they don't judge it over one season."

"They need to give it a fair crack at this to make our game strong."

McNamara is planning to fly to England to oversee a mid-season training camp in preparation for the autumn Test series against New Zealand. But he accepts the new structure may place more demands on his Super League-based players.

"We will certainly be getting together at some point," he said. "It's been very successful for us, but what form that takes is still part of our discussions."

"It will increase our chances of international success so, if there is a slight drop-off in the number of days we have with the players, it will be more than offset by the fact that they will be playing in a stronger competition this year."

DOG LEADS

Jarrow can march away with victory

THE pick of the midweek action comes from Hove with some top quality open-races.

Droopys Jarrow is top-class at his best he's been off for a break but this will be his third-race back.

He performed well enough in the first-two but I'm expecting those to have brought him forward and will see him grab his first win of 2015.

I tipped Joes Mixa last week and he duly obliged winning by a whopping 6.5 lengths. I can't desert him now and see no reason why he can't win this Maiden final £500 to-the-winner.

My Real Mutley was no match for a vibrant Swift Keith on latest start but back at Hove over 475m against this opposition should see him go very close.

Farley Chicken looks to have got a serious drop in class from his usual engagements and I expect him to relish it.

Take him to make all over 695m for the McNair's there's no Vandrooney in this race

ROMFORD TONIGHT

A tricky graded card tonight but I'm not one to shirk a challenge and hopefully I've managed to find us a few winners.

Kingsmill Aris ran a cracker last time out in A2 to just get caught by Shot Of Honey.

A similar smart exit can see this son of Premier Fantasy bolt clear and hopefully cross the line in front.

In the A1 Leamaneigh Fury seems to have forgotten his trapping beats of late but should be home on tonight he will win.

Capable of producing a sectional in the 3 70's a repeat of that will see him pop around the corner in front which will see him return to winning ways.

Genesis Demester goes in the other A1 and her win last week should see the confidence return to this talented lady.

At her best she is open-class and I'm expecting her to take some stopping tonight

ON THE NOSE

ALL THE NEWS FROM DAY ONE OF THE CHELTENHAM FESTIVAL

KING WILLIE

WILLIE MULLINS had an amazing opening day of the Cheltenham Festival with FOUR huge winners.

He took the Supreme Novices Hurdle with DOUVAN the Arkle Chase thanks to UN DE SCEAUX and topped the lot with FAUGHEEN in the Champion Hurdle.

Then his Annie Power was running away with the Mares Hurdle — only to fall at the final flight when miles clear.

But there was no harm done and the horse and jockey Ruby Walsh were unhurt. And he won the race anyway with GLENS MELODY.

The bookies breathed a sigh of relief as an Annie Power win would have cost them millions in accumulators on all those winning favourites.

But it was a day that Mullins will never forget. The biggest moment came when he trained the first three home in the Champion Hurdle — a superb feat in such a big race.

After that amazing result Mullins said: "What a team effort."

Ruby said he was going to make it and win it. This is beyond our wildest dreams. It's just too good to be true.

"I don't know if I'm the first to train the first three but if I am it's fantastic."

"I was hoping one of them might win it."

"Faugheen was fantastic."

"He dictated the pace, did what he did when he wanted and quickened as and when he wanted."

"I thought Hurricane Fly ran a fantastic race throughout and Arctic Fire — I can't see a rib on him yet, so I think there is far more improvement in him than in the rest of them."

A jubilant Walsh added "Faugheen is a wonderful horse. He has jumped better he missed the second last."

"It was a massive call not to ride Hurricane Fly."

When you see what Hurricane Fly was doing at home, it was a big call to get off him. It was some training performance, to have the first two in the Supreme as well."

Douvan got the ball rolling with a bloodless victory in the Supreme Novices Hurdle.

He travelled beautifully and gave punters a great start, scoring at 2/1 with another Mullins inmate Shaneshill chasing him home in second.

Mullins said "He's a horse that has huge ability. That's going to make the week a lot easier for us."

"It was good to see him doing what he does at home. If there hadn't been so much at stake Ruby might not have had him off the bridle."

"He's a horse that has huge ability."

"He was a bit too free and I thought that might have been his undoing. I didn't expect him to be like that. He's very relaxed at home."

SACRE BACK TO RECLAIM HIS CROWN

SPRINTER SACRE can regain his crown in the Betway Queen Mother Champion Chase at the Cheltenham Festival, say Timeform.

Sprinter Sacre put up a performance that earned him the highest Timeform rating over jumps since the days of Arkle when winning the Champion Chase by 19 lengths from Sizing Europe two years ago.

Nicky Henderson's stable star was pulled up with an irregular heartbeat on his sole outing the following season and didn't make the track again until this January, but it was an encouraging effort as he chased home Dodg. & Bullets in the Clarence House at Ascot. Timeform Chf. Correspondent Jamie Lynch said "There were sufficient positives in Sprinter Sacri's comeback at Ascot for us to think that he can still produce a Champion Chase-winning performance, hence his weight adjusted rating of 188, which is still some 17 lb under the figure he achieved at the height of his powers.

Thriving

"The physical issues he's had complicate matters, but to focus on his finish at Arcot is to underestimate how well Sprinter Sacre shaped for much of the race, while Dodging Bullets and Siro de Grugy have proved in their campaign that a reappearance defeat is no barrier to getting back thriving."

The aforementioned Siro de Gruy pretty much carried all before him in Sprinter Sacre's absence last season, winning six of his seven starts including the Champion Chase at Cheltenham, and after missing much of this term through injury, he got back on track in a handicap at Cheltenham last time.

Lynch said. "By any handicapping measure, S

Grugy was back to his best with a fine weight-carrying performance at Chepstow, and he's in pole position to capitalise if Sprinter Sacre's problems re-adjust.

PROGRESS Monreal

NACHO'S BACKING GUNNERS TO FIRE

By IAN WINROW

NACHO MONREAL believes Arsenal's FA Cup win at Man United shows how far Arsene Wenger's side have come in 12 months. The quarter-final triumph set up a semi-final clash with Bradford or Reading. That means they are clear favourites to repeat last season's trip to the final when they beat Hull to lift the trophy. The first leg defeat in the Champions League to Monaco was a recent low point. But Gunners defender Monreal believes that was a blip and he reckons the positive results against the top Premier League teams is the true measure of progress. And he said: "We are in a good dynamic in the last few games. "Except for Monaco when we didn't play really well, in the rest of the games we have played well and won most of them. This is the style now to keep going. "We are Arsenal and we have very good players. Obviously everyone had memories of last season when we lost all the games against top teams.

Establish

"This season we played really well against Man City. We won and it was fair and this is the same. "We played really well and are very happy for the victory. "We want to finish as high up as possible and the best way is to keep focusing in each game and have commitment. We have to win as many games as we can." Monreal is battling to establish himself as the first choice left-back ahead of Kieran Gibbs – and boosted his chances with the opening goal at Old Trafford.

He said: "This season I have played more games than last season but I think last season, when I didn't play enough, I didn't play really well. "This season, the boss has shown more confidence in me and I am always very happy that I can help the team. "I prefer to play at left-back but you never know – at the beginning of the season we only had two centre-backs. "It was a new experience but always the most important thing is to play."

Wayne: Cup blow job is hard to take!

PAINFUL. Rooney is gutted after his side go down to the Gunners

WAYNE ROONEY thinks Man United blew a great opportunity to win the FA Cup this year.

United were beaten 2-1 by Arsenal in Monday night's quarter-final showdown at Old Trafford.

The defeat was hard to take for Rooney and his team-mates. The club have now gone 11 years without winning the FA Cup and it remains the only domestic trophy Rooney has not lifted. United would have been expected to beat either Bradford or Reading in the semi-finals if they had progressed.

And given that they were the highest ranked team left in the competition, they would have been favourites to lift the trophy in May.

By TREVOR WILLIAMS

"I want to win the cup for and with the team. It's not about me wanting to win the FA Cup," the United captain said.

"That's why it's so sad for us to get knocked out. We knew we'd have a great opportunity if we'd won on Monday night."

Rooney slammed a diving header past Wojciech Szczesny to make it 1-1 four minutes after Nacho Monreal's opener.

But any hopes of United making a Wembley semi-final were dashed when Danny Welbeck (below) scored against his old club just after the hour and Angel di Maria was given a second yellow card for tugging the back of referee Michael Oliver's shirt.

"We're disappointed," added Rooney. "Going into half time having equalised, we felt we'd create enough chances to win the game, but it wasn't to be."

Welbeck's task for the winner was made easier because of a mistake by Antonio Valencia in the build-up.

The United right back sold David de Gea short with a poor backpass, leaving England striker Welbeck to tap the ball past the Spanish goalkeeper and roll it into an empty net.

Rooney refused to publicly blame Valencia and instead turned his attentions to Sunday's Premier League game against Tottenham.

"Mistakes happen, but it's not nice when you're on the receiving end of one which costs us a goal," Rooney said.

"It's a hard one to take, but we have to dust ourselves down and get ready for Sunday."

"Conceding the second goal the way we did meant we were always chasing the game. They made it difficult for us and defended well."

Oliver dished out seven yellow cards to United on Monday, which means they will be fined £25,000 by the Football Association.

Clarets get Ulvestad on board for battle

By PETE OLIVER

BURNLEY have snapped up Norway international Fredrik Ulvestad to help their Premier League survival fight.

The midfielder, 22, has joined the Clarets as a free agent after spending the last few weeks training with Sean Dyche's squad.

Ulvestad was without a club after leaving top-flight Norwegian outfit Alesunds FK at the end of last season.

And his signing increases the Clarets' midfield options after they missed out on a number of transfer targets during the January window.

A season-ending knee injury to Dean Marney at the start of February further depleted their resources, leaving Dyche with David Jones as his only established central midfielder player.

Scott Arfield has moved off the wing to plug the gap in recent weeks, but Ulvestad will now challenge for a place as Burnley battle to beat the drop.

And as well as bolstering his squad, Dyche may also turn to his "Dad's Army" to help the Clarets in their bid to stay up.

Fitness

Dyche's men have slipped back into the relegation zone after a run of no wins in seven games and face defending champions Man City at Turf Moor on Saturday.

And Dyche may now turn to his old guard to help out during the run-in.

Midfielder Matty Taylor, 33, is close to full fitness after being out since August with an Achilles injury.

Left-back Stephen Ward, 28, is pushing for a recall after recovering from a broken foot, while Dyche also believes Steven Reid, 34, can utilise his experience over the closing weeks of the campaign.

Dyche said: "I think Reidy and Taylor have a different part to play, as well as on the pitch. "Ward's also had bits of that, along with Michael Duff and Jason Shackell. They are the more experienced ones."

"With the younger players, it's just a case of kids in a sweet shop."

"Danny Ings and Kieran Trippier just want to play at the best level."

OLLIE'S DEN FOR AT LIONS

By BEN LLOYD

IAN HOLLOWAY has been axed by struggling Millwall after their latest defeat left them eight points from safety in the Championship.

The 61-year-old (right) had spent little more than a year as manager at The Den.

Neil Harris has agreed to take charge of the first team until the end of the season as the club begins its search for a permanent replacement.

John Barylson, the Lions chairman, said: "This was a hard decision to take because we very much hoped that Ollie would prove to be the man to take us forward and on to the next level."

"I would like to thank him for his efforts and in particular for keeping us in the division last May."

"This season though, has proved to be an extremely challenging one and we now find ourselves facing another uphill battle to avoid relegation."

"Ian Holloway remains a fine manager and it was his impressive track record which led us to appoint him some 14 months ago."

"However our view is that the decision to part company at this stage is in the best interests of the football club going forward."

Holloway took charge of his seventh club when appointed as Steve Lomas permanent successor in January 2014 and steered Millwall to safety as they went undefeated in their last eight matches.

But the Lions have struggled this season and a crushing 4-1 defeat to Norwich at the weekend was their fourth in a row.

Millwall have won only three league games at home this season.

JONAS WINS HIS OWN MARATHON

By NIAL HICKMAN

NEWCASTLE winger Jonas Gutierrez had a "crazy" remedy just a fortnight after finishing chemotherapy treatment for testicular cancer – he ran a marathon!

The popular Argentinian had just finished a debilitating course of treatment when he told his doctors he was going to run the Buenos Aires Marathon. Gutierrez wore the famous black and white stripes for the first time in 17 months in last week's home defeat to Man United, but it has been a long road back to the big time. "I'd finished chemotherapy two weeks before I ran the marathon," said Gutierrez, who finished the gruelling run in five hours 22 minutes despite the anti-cancer drug still coursing through his veins.

"I wanted to do it. I like to do sports. When they told me not to run I said, 'Yes I enjoyed it and I would definitely do it again'."

The doctor said "You're crazy, you're crazy," but I didn't listen to him. I wanted to run and do sport."

Spider-Man

"When you are going through your treatment they tell you to do exercise. Sometimes it's hard and you can't because you are so tired but since I finished my last session of chemotherapy I wanted to do something and that was my opportunity."

Gutierrez is responsible for one of the most famous goa-scoring celebrations in Premier League history by donning a Spider-Man mask – his nickname back in south America – but the 31-year-old insists he is no superhero, even after his successful battle against cancer.

He said: "People think we're superheroes, but you

Cancer hero Gutierrez's sensational achievement

see that this type of thing can happen to anyone.

"It touched me and I had to go through this, but now you think of positive things. In some ways it was a great experience and I learnt a lot."

"In that moment you don't think about anything. You go into shock, you go blank," he said, recalling when he received the news that the pain in his groin was a cancerous tumour.

"You never know what is going to happen. The best thing you can do is what the doctor tells you and try to be positive. The thing I thought at the time was, 'Right, I will do everything I can'."

Improvement

Gutierrez is now looking ahead to helping Newcastle secure a top 10 finish in the Premier League.

The Argentine, who has made nearly 200 appearances for Newcastle, is hoping to make his first start for the Magpies since August 2013 in Sunday's trip to Goodison Park and spark an improvement in results which could earn him an extension to his current five-year contract which runs out this summer.

Gus recall is Brad luck for Jordan

By SEAN RAFTER

UNLUCKY Jordan Pickford could miss out on a dream trip to Wembley after his loan spell at Bradford was ended by Sunderland boss Gus Poyet.

The young keeper has been a regular for Phil Parkinson's League One side this season. But he has returned to the Stadium of Light after Poyet decided not to extend his loan spell with the Bantams.

Pickford kept nine clean sheets in 33 league starts for Bradford after joining on loan last summer.

But with Parkinson's team closing in on a play off place, Poyet has decided he needs the youngster back on Wearside as cover for Costel Pantilimon and Vito Mannone.

Having turned 21 on Saturday, Pickford is no longer eligible for a youth loan and Sunderland would have needed to strike a fresh emergency deal with Bradford.

If the Black Cats had done that, Poyet would have lost the 24-hour recall clause on the stopper for the next month and been left with little cover for his first choice goalkeepers.

It has left the Wearside boss with no option but to bring unlucky Pickford back to the North East, where he will, now most likely spend the remainder of the campaign hoping to make the bench. Parkinson said: "We're obviously disappointed to lose Jordan but we always knew there was the possibility of him being recalled at some point."

"He's been brilliant for us since coming to the club. He has been a pleasure to work with."

Bradford are just one match away from Wembley with the winners of their replay against Reading facing Arsene Wenger's Arsenal in the semi-finals.

Big Sam targets a gr-eight finish

By IAN WINROW

SAM ALLARDYCE is targeting a top-eight finish with West Ham.

A free weekend allowed the Hammers to take a break in Dubai ahead of Saturday's trip to Arsenal. And boss Allardyce said: "Eighth for us is achievable – we should already be there."

"We should have already secured a lot more points, but we haven't and that shows you the frailties of the squad."

"Even though our performances have been excellent, our wins have turned into draws and because of that we have slipped down the league a little bit."

"For now, though, it's about those last 10 games, securing as many points as possible and trying to hit the target of eighth."

Allardyce has grown tired of hard-luck stories after seeing his side drop points to a last-minute Spurs penalty and a one-goal defeat at Chelsea.

He added: "Unfortunately, against Chelsea we didn't get what we wanted because we didn't finish our chances and they scored an offside goal."

"But against Tottenham, we were only five seconds away from three points. So we can win and winning is the most important thing for us now."

CURTIS IS STILL IN TIGERS HUNT

By JAMES McMATH

STEVE BRUCE has assured Curtis Davies he still has a future at Hull.

The 39-year-old has not featured since the 3-0 home defeat by Newcastle on January 31.

Davies (below) is Hull's club captain and was named player of the year last season, but he has not been able to repeat that form this season.

Bruce said: "He had a fantastic year last season and rightly won Player of the Year awards."

"There are times when everyone doesn't play as well as they would like to."

"He's worked hard on the training ground and he's accepted it. He's been the man that I expected he would be and got on with it."

"He always gives you nothing but 100 per cent, but I felt we needed a change."

"It's up to him to keep plugging away because there's no doubt his chance will come again. When it comes he'll grasp it."

The Tigers have pulled themselves out of the bottom three and next up is a trip to face bottom club Leicester.

Michae Dawson who has replaced Davies as captain said: "We want to beat the teams that are in and around us."

The kids are all White for Neil!

By JAMES McMATH

NEIL REDFEARN believes the future's bright for Leeds – if they can hang on to their crop of talented kids.

The Whites have moved themselves away from the Championship drop zone with seven wins from 10 matches.

Academy graduates Alex Mowatt, Lewis Cook and Sam Byram and Charlie Taylor have all played a big part in the upturn.

With Manchester City snaffing around Byram and Newcastle interested in Mowatt, Redfearn is desperate for Leeds to keep their top talent.

The Elland Road boss (right) said: "Clubs want good players, end of. Our young players are probably as good as you are going to get anywhere in the country."

"You want to keep your best young players because this is the foundation of your planning. If we're going to be successful again, it's always going to be built around your youth."

"They have had a great season and they have got a season of Championship experience. That's vital."

"They are going to be big assets."

City urge Yaya to ignore Mancini and accept deal for life

By PETE OLIVER

MANCHESTER CITY will step up their bid to secure Yaya Touré on a new contract to keep him out of the clutches of former boss Roberto Mancini.

Mancini has made no secret of the fact that he would like to take the Ivory Coast midfielder to Inter Milan.

The Italian, sacked by City in 2013, is trying to build a side capable of ending the domination of Juventus - who are set to win the Serie A title for a fourth successive year.

Mancini said: "Yaya's played in all the top leagues apart from Germany and Italy."

"And if he, as it seems would like to come to Italy then there is this possibility."

"It's not going to be easy. He's a player with personality and incredible technical quality."

"I've not come across many like him."

"But if he were to come to Italy, then Inter would certainly be his first choice."

Those remarks will not have gone down well at the Etihad Stadium with City still pursuing talks over a new deal for Touré.

Limbo

The 31-year-old is under contract with City until 2017, but the Premier League champions hope he will agree to an extension that will keep him at the club for the rest of his career.

However, nothing is likely to happen until the summer with Touré waiting to see how the rest of City's season pans out and whether there will be a change of management at the end of the season.

City are also in a state of limbo over James Milner who could leave this summer when his contract expires.

The midfielder, 29, is also a target for Mancini and a number of Italian and Spanish clubs, including Roma and AC Milan.

Closer to home, Liverpool are also keen on snapping up the England international.

RANGEL WON'T SWAN OFF

ANGEL RANGEL has signed a one-year contract extension at Swansea.

The deal will keep the 32-year-old at the Liberty Stadium until 2017.

It means the Spaniard will have been with the Welsh for a decade.

Rangel said: "To be part of this club for the next two years is great news for me."

"Playing for Swansea City for 10 years has always been a target for me."

"I wasn't in the last year of my contract, so for the club to sort a new deal at this point showed the commitment, loyalty and faith the chairman and manager have in me."

"I'd like to thank the club for giving me an extension, and I'll repay them for that with my commitment and performances."

CLARK IN 'POOL OF SHIT

By PETE OLIVER

BLACKPOOL boss Lee Clark is under mounting pressure after rumours he's about to get the chop at Bloomfield Road.

And the Seaside could be set to hand former manager Ian Holloway an instant return to employment after he was sacked by Millwall yesterday.

Clark (left) is adamant he will remain in charge next season despite Blackpool's impending relegation.

The ex-Birmingham and Huddersfield boss has been unable to stem the tide after taking over at the end of October following the disastrous reign of Jose Riga.

Clark has been working with one hand tied behind his back in terms of budgets and player recruitment.

But the Geordie is not a popular figure with the fans, who are fed-up with the direction owner Karl Oyston is taking the club. And the answer now looks as though it could be a return for Holloway in the summer.

Oillo worked a miracle in taking Blackpool into the Premier League in 2010 and is revered by the fans.

If Oyston can offer the 51-year-old guarantees that he will pump some cash into squad strengthening and improving the club's infrastructure, then a dream comeback could be on the cards.

A SHOW OF GUTS!

Don't play like chickens, roars Jagielka

By JAMES McMATH

PHIL JAGIELKA has told Everton not to be CHICKENS when they face Dynamo Kiev in the first leg at Goodison.

Roberto Martinez's men have been flying in Europe – but have struggled to juggle the demands with the strain of the Premier League.

The Toffees have won just once in 14 domestic matches – and skipper Jagielka is imploring his team-mates to show some guts to fight on two fronts.

The central defender said: "Confidence isn't sky-high and the performances and results haven't been good enough to get that way."

"But we've been in so many games where we feel like we've been so close that things have got to turn."

"Europe has not been a bad place for us. We need to go out and put a shift in, but it is a challenge."

Dogfight

"We've gone quite far in the Europa League because we've shown ourselves to be up for the challenge, but we're in not such a good position in the league – we have got to be up for that challenge as well."

"We need to go out there, try our best and when we come off the pitch we can look each other in the eye and go to the next game."

Martinez led Everton to fifth in the Premier League last season, but this campaign has become a relegation dogfight.

Jagielka says playing in Europe has taken its toll on the players, but the 32-year-old insists that can be no excuse for their poor form.

The England centre-back said:

GRIPPING STUFF: Everton ran into more trouble in their 2-0 defeat at Stoke

"You are bound to feel that bit more tired because you are doing more high-intensity running than you would do in training, but it's a mental thing as well."

"If we want to go and play Champions League football, play European football regularly and go far in these competitions, then we need to expect this many games per season."

"I don't want to play 20 games a season and feel great. I want to play as many as possible, get through them and do a job."

"I think it is a slight mental thing. But if you are looking for it to be an excuse, then it can only be unhelpful to think that way."

Everton slipped to a 2-0 defeat at Stoke a week ago to crank up the pressure for Sunday's Premier League clash with Newcastle.

Jagielka wants the players to get their act together. He added: "We looked edgy at Stoke. We got into positions and quickly looked for a pass and gave it away. We were a bit panicky."

Important

"Stoke played a certain way and deserved to win – but we need to start playing a certain way and deserve to win."

"We've got an important game against Kiev that we need to focus on. But then we need to quickly recover, because we have an important game on Sunday."

Lennon's next big challenge is to avoid being a loser

Blackburn v Bolton

NEIL LENNON has challenged his Bolton side to go through the rest of the campaign unbeaten.

Wanderers are 10 points clear of the bottom three and 21 adrift of the play-off spots.

But while it appears there is little to play for, Trotters boss Lennon is keen to finish the final stretch with a flourish.

"We'll try to stay unbeaten to the end of the season and finish it strongly," he said.

"Then we can reassess where we are and rebuild for next year."

Lennon reckons the last meeting between the two clubs was one of the highlights of his short Bolton reign.

Debutant Emile Heskey inspired a come-from-behind victory at the Macron Stadium on Boxing Day as Bolton beat Gary Bowyer's men 2-1 in front of 23,000 fans – the highest home gate of the season.

"It was great, the atmosphere was fantastic," said Lennon.

Revival

"It was a great game, end to end with chances. Blackburn could easily have won it, but we ended up winning it and it turned out to be a really pivotal moment for us."

"I'm looking for more of the same."

Blackburn, who are without Bolton loanees Jay Spearing and Alex Baptiste, will be in action just three days after holding Liverpool to a 0-0 draw at Anfield in the FA Cup quarter-finals.

Rovers have conceded just one goal in their last three away games.

Stand-in skipper Matt Kilgallon has been a big part of the revival at the back and believes he's in the best form of his career.

"I'm 31 now and I feel great," he said. "They say centre-halves come into their prime at this sort of age and I feel really good."

"I played a lot of games for Leeds and Sheffield United, but then I didn't play for two-and-a-half years at Sunderland."

"I didn't play enough football, but I'm loving what I do now. I'm playing every week and as a centre-half that's what you need to do."

No charges for Albion pair

WEST BROM pair Callum McManaman and James Morrison will NOT face any action over footage of them clashing with Aston Villa fans.

The FA have opted not to act over scenes in a video taken by a supporter and posted on Instagram which involved the Baggies duo in the aftermath of their FA Cup quarter-final loss.

It had appeared to show Morrison trip a fan and McManaman block two others as they invaded the pitch during chaotic scenes at the final whistle.

The Baggies are already fighting a charge against Chris Brunt for using abusive language towards ref Anthony Taylor in the tunnel.

Second-half goals from Fabian Delph and Scott

Sinclair had earned Villa a second win over their derby rivals in the space of just five days.

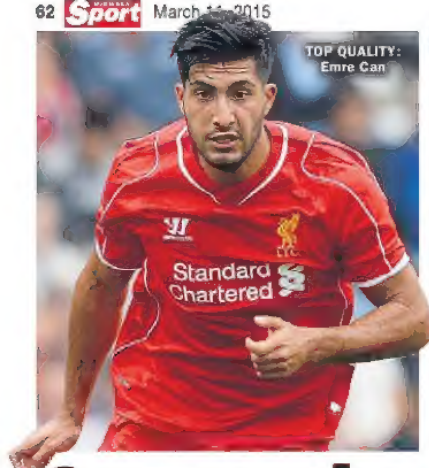

Yet the match was marred by controversial scenes which are now the subject of an FA probe and led to 17 arrests by police.

Baggies fans in the North Stand upper tier tore out several seats and threw them at the Villa fans below them during the second half, leading to some injuries. Three pitch invasions included a mass one at the final whistle.

Players from both teams found themselves caught up in a melee which Villa skipper Delph described as "very very scary".

The FA are expected to focus on identifying the troublemakers who fled on to the field – but both clubs are also facing having the book thrown at them.

Can can be a Kop idol, says Toure

By JAMES McMATH

EMRE CAN has the quality to become a Liverpool legend, according to team-mate Kolo Toure.

Can joined for £10million in the summer and has enjoyed a superb first season in England.

He has even been mentioned as a future Reds captain when Steven Gerrard leaves for the US at the end of the season.

Toure said: "He's a leader. You can see by the way he plays that he's really confident. He talks a lot on the pitch too, which is a big help."

"Right now Jordan Henderson is very good as captain, but there's no doubt this boy is going to be a king here."

"He's a top player and can make a difference in games. He can score goals and his work-rate is amazing. There is no better player."

Can, 21, has excelled in midfield and defence since switching from Bayer Leverkusen.

And defender Toure says he isn't surprised at how quickly the German Under-21 star has settled in Liverpool.

"Emre is a top player," Toure added. "He's been playing outstandingly at the back and in the middle. He's very strong and we like him here."

Decision

"German players are really good so I'm not surprised about how well he's doing."

"They learn football at an early age and they are really intelligent, tactically outstanding and are really strong."

"He's been working hard in training and, even though he's still young, he's already a top professional."

Toure's own future at Anfield is less certain.

Kop boss Brendan Rodgers is ready to offer the 33-year-old a one-year contract extension, but the Ivory Coast international is keen to end his career as a first-team regular. The former

Toure said: "My agent is talking to the club so we'll see in a few days."

"It's a big decision so I need to think very hard about what to do."

"It's very important to know what you are facing, whether you are going to be playing or not."

"I need to do the right thing for me and my family."

Glen Johnson also looks to be on his way out of Anfield.

The 30-year-old is out of contract at the end of the season and has opened talks with a number of foreign clubs over a switch.

ON TO A WINNER

By IAN WINROW

GARY CAHILL believes Chelsea must draw on the spirit that delivered Wembley glory if they are to reach the last eight of the Champions League.

Jose Mourinho's side face Paris St-Germain at Stamford Bridge tonight after holding the French side to a 1-1 draw in the first leg.

A clean sheet will see Chelsea through – and Mourinho's men have shown they have developed a mean streak by registering shut-outs in their last two games.

The 2-0 Capital One Cup final win over Tottenham delivered the first piece of silverware of Mourinho's second spell in charge.

Then the Blues followed that up with a battling win at West Ham, where Eden Hazard's header was enough to secure a narrow win.

Proud

Cahill said: "The cup final was huge in terms of the atmosphere around the club and the dressing room."

"We were desperate as a team, as a squad, to win that game."

"It's the first time this group – a newish group formed at the start of last season and before this season – has reached the end of a competition together."

"We are very proud of winning our first trophy as a group together and getting that win at West Ham – but they're gone."

"All that is on our minds now is the PSG game. That's all we are thinking about in the days leading up to it."

Chelsea had a free weekend, so have

Cahill calls for more of that special Blues cup final spirit had seven days' preparation ahead of the PSG clash.

And Cahill added: "We have had more time than we usually would to rest up and prepare in training before the game."

"We've been able to really work on specific things in preparation for it."

"We know the quality of PSG and the job that lies ahead of us. It's going to be like a final, a big one-off game."

"We'll be ready to go out there and give it everything we have to get us into the next round."

Chelsea knocked PSG out of the competition last season, recovering after losing 3-1 in the first leg.

But the French side's midfielder Marco Verratti insisted: "Our team is different this season. It is perhaps better and we can use the experience of last season."

"Last year, we went there to defend and waited for the game to finish as quickly as possible, and perhaps that's why we were caught out."

Pressure

"We have to avoid putting too much pressure on ourselves. Everyone has a different way of preparing for a game."

"We have to go there as calmly as possible without denying that pressure exists."

"Chelsea are probably stronger than last year. They were very active in the transfer market and brought in some great players, like Cesc Fabregas."

Nemanja Matić is set to return to the Chelsea line-up after serving a two-match suspension.

The midfielder missed the Capital One Cup final and the Premier League win at West Ham for his sending-off against Burnley.

John Obi Mikel (knee) is Chelsea's only definite injury absentee.

Sinclair: My 30 months of Man City hell are over

By BRENDAN McLOUGHLIN

ASTON VILLA FA Cup hero Scott Sinclair has declared two-and-a-half years of hell at Manchester City finally behind him.

The on-loan winger scored Villa's second in Saturday's 2-0 win over West Brom to book a Wembley semi-final spot.

That took his tally to THREE goals in five games since Tim Sherwood was named boss.

Sinclair admits he is relieved to be getting his career back on track after finding himself stuck in the shadows since joining City in 2012.

"As a player you've just got to get on with it," said Sinclair.

"It's great now that I can work with the new manager, try my best to do as well as I can and score and create some goals."

"I haven't been this hungry to play football for a long time – since I was a kid probably – because it's been so long since I've had a run of games."

Battle

"I am confident in my ability to score and create goals. It is just about playing games and being settled."

"My last start back at Manchester City was over a year ago."

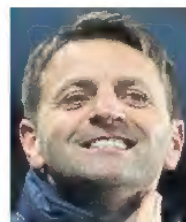

"For me, it is all about playing games, and when I do that I've just got to perform."

Villa now turn their attention back to their relegation battle, with a trip to fellow strugglers Sunderland looming on Saturday.

And Sinclair has backed new boss Sherwood to lead the Midlands club, who currently sit three points above the drop zone, to safety.

"He's definitely lifted things," said Sinclair. "The intensity has gone up dramatically and everyone is fighting for places as well."

"Hopefully, we can just kick on now."

Kop boss readies Alves swoop

Alves has been with Barca since 2008 and has won four La Liga titles and lifted the Champions League twice.

With Johnson almost certainly on his way, Kop boss Rodgers wants to bring in more experience, and he has told the Anfield board to make a big effort to lure Alves to Merseyside.

The Reds will offer him a £130k-a-week contract in an effort to persuade him to link up with fellow Brazilians Lucas Leiva and Philippe Coutinho.
